

2024 Paul C. Rhyne Art Competition Entries Being Accepted

Arts Council of Lincoln County

LINCOLNTON, N.C. - The Paul C. Rhyne Art Competition is an annual exhibition for the ACLC, which was renamed in 2007 in honor and memory of Paul C. Rhyne, a lifelong resident of Lincolnton and supporter of the arts council. The exhibit has included dozens of entries from the region, including but not limited to Hickory, Gastonia, Mt. Holly, Denver and Lincolnton.

The public is invited to view the exhibit in the galleries of the Lincoln Cultural Center located at 403 East Main Street in Lincolnton. The exhibit will be on display November 8-30. An awards ceremony and opening show reception will be held on Thursday, November 14 at 6pm.